application for leave and there's no application for extension of time.

Be that as it may, we note that the petition is being opposed and we obviously will need time to file affidavit evidence and so on, so the matter will have to be adjourned to the companies judge. And I note next week will be a public holiday, so it will be the following week.

E The other matter is that there is a striking-out summons before the court today which was issued by the company on...

- COURT: Actually, this was going to be a question I was minded to raise because, yesterday, when I was reading the file...
- G MS TONG: Yes.

COURT: ...I couldn't find the summons. I only spotted it was mentioned in the affidavit, that is also the affidavit in support of the striking-out application...

MS TONG: Yes.

- J COURT: ...but I couldn't find the summons at all. When was it filed?
- K MS TONG: It was filed on 10 November 2016.
- COURT: I see, it was much earlier than that.
 - MS TONG: And it has been listed to be heard today before Master. But be that as it may, my learned friend has confirmed that the company would no longer pursue that summons, and so we will ask the court to dismiss the summons with costs.
 - COURT: How come the affirmation filed yesterday was still saying that it was filed in support of the striking-out application?
 - MS TONG: You will have to ask my learned friend, but I believe that the striking-out mentioned in the affirmation may be different from the striking-out summons which was issued on 10 November. Master, the 10 November summons was to strike out the petition on the basis that Rule 26 of the Companies Winding Up Rules was not complied with, which is clearly wrong. But be that as it may, the striking-out referred to in Mr Hopkin Chan's affidavit appears to be on the basis of the merits of the petition and it being an abuse of process. So I believe that there are two separate matters. Master, I've got a copy of the summons here if it would assist.

COURT: Yes, please.

- MS TONG: So on that summons, I would respectfully ask the court to make an order to dismiss the summons with costs to the petitioner.

- MR CHENG: May it please you, Master, I appear for the respondent. Insofar as the striking-out summons is concerned, I confirm that we will seek leave to withdraw the summons and we agree that costs has to be paid to the petitioner.
- COURT: So how do you want to deal with the costs? Should it be taxed or should it be summarily assessed?
- G MS TONG: Perhaps the order can be made for taxed costs because we don't have a summary bill at the moment.
- H COURT: Forthwith?
- MR CHENG: Sure, forthwith.
 - MS TONG: Yes and we do ask for dismissal, Master, because there's obviously no merit in it and rather than for withdrawal.
- K COURT: Well, I haven't heard and I haven't got the time to go through everything.
 - MS TONG: Very well, I'll leave it in Master's hands if that's the case.
 - COURT: If you really want...
- MS TONG: It's actually very simple. They asked for striking-out on the basis that we did not file a verifying affidavit, but we did. That's the only point and...
 - COURT: Well, if you really want to have the writ dismissed on the grounds of merits, I'll have to stand this matter down and then I'll read through papers and see whether it's...
 - MS TONG: Well, then to save time and costs, then we'll stick with the withdrawal then.
- COURT: I suppose, in effect, there's no difference.
- S MS TONG: It's the same. Yes.
- T COURT: Leave for the respondent to withdraw the summons filed on 10 November 2016, with costs to the petitioner to be taxed forthwith if not agreed.

C MR CHENG: Yes. COURT: Is there going to be another striking-out application n taken out? E MR CHENG: I do not think that's the case. I believe it's simply a clerical mistake to include that phrase, maybe mistakenly referring to the striking-out summons we seek to withdraw F today. COURT: All right, so I'll just remind you, if you are minded to G do so, you have to take immediate steps to do so. H MR CHENG: Certainly. The matter has to be adjourned to be heard by the COURT: I companies judge anyway. J So I adjourn the petition to 13 February 2017 - because I have been told that there is no hearing before the companies judge on 6 February, so 13th is the first available date -К at 9.30 am.
